

Augusta Magazine — September 2011

Polo has been an integral part of Aiken's history since the 1800s, when the Winter Colony residents flocked to the city to escape the cold. That tradition has prevailed over the past century and Aiken today boasts multiple polo fields and professionals as well as Whitney Field the site of the longest consecutive period of play on one field in the country.

Read more ...